The Suez Canal connects the Red Sea to the Mediterranean – and it is a masterpiece of engineering. The busy man-made waterway for huge cargo ships from all over the world saves them from circumnavigating Africa, considerably shortening sea routes and making the canal an important lifeline for global trade. Its expansion in 2015 almost doubled the number of potential passages and created even more room for ships to glide through the impressive waterway.

Arrives On: 29 Jun 27

Day 13: Piraeus (Greece)

With the impressive Acropolis as its landmark, the Greek capital Athens combines ancient monuments with modern city life. The Acropolis or citadel, dedicated to the city's patron goddess Athena and encompassing the Parthenon, the Erechtheion and the Propylaia, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and symbolises the important history of Greek antiquity. Piraeus, the largest port in Greece and a major transport hub, is the starting point for journeys to the historical and cultural heart of the country. Athens and Piraeus together offer the perfect combination of history, culture and modern life.

Day 14: Piraeus (Greece)
