Bora Bora greets you with its iconic turquoise lagoon and the striking silhouette of Mount Otemanu. Stroll along pristine white-sand beaches, feel the gentle ocean breeze, and take in sweeping views of the dramatic volcanic peaks. Enjoy a variety of water-based activities in the crystal-clear lagoon, from kayaking and paddleboarding to snorkelling among vibrant coral reefs, all framed by the island's breathtaking scenery. For a more leisurely pace, relax on the beach, explore secluded coves, or simply soak in the tranquil beauty of one of the South Pacific's most celebrated islands.

Day 5: Aitutaki (Cook Islands)

Aitutaki reveals one of the world's most stunning lagoons, stretching over 50 square kilometres and dotted with a constellation of islands and islets, most untouched and pristine. With gentle elevations never exceeding 124 metres, the sweeping, picture-perfect vistas remain uninterrupted at every turn.

Immerse yourself in the lagoon's crystalline waters with a snorkelling excursion, bask on powdery beaches, or simply surrender to the tranquil rhythm of island life. Browse the local markets near the wharf, where vendors showcase a curated selection of black pearls, vibrant sarongs, and exquisite handmade craft — perfect for those seeking a touch of authentic island elegance.

Day 6: Palmerston Island (Cook Islands)

One of the most remote communities in the world, Palmerston Island lies within a brilliant turquoise lagoon formed by a coral atoll in the northern Cook Islands. Six small islets sit within an 11-kilometre-wide ring of reef, creating a protected haven rich in marine life.

Originally known as Avarau, meaning "200 harbours", the island was sighted by Captain James Cook in 1774 and later named for Lord Palmerston of the British Admiralty. Today, fewer than 60 residents live here, most descended from Englishman William Marsters, a ship's carpenter who settled in 1863.

A warm welcome awaits, often led by the Mayor and local schoolchildren. Spend time discovering this close-knit community, browsing handmade crafts, or enjoying the lagoon’s inviting waters including Duke’s Pool, where Prince Philip swam during his visit in the 1970s.

Arrives On: 18 Apr 28

Day 8: Alofi (Niue)

Step into Alofi, the heart of Niue, one of the world’s smallest nations with fewer than 2,000 residents. This peaceful town offers a glimpse of the South Pacific as it once was, with charming churches and quiet streets reflecting its rich Polynesian heritage.

Venture beyond Alofi along dramatic coastal trails, past cliffs and hidden caves, or unwind on pristine, secluded beaches perfect for swimming and snorkelling in complete tranquillity.

Day 9: Port information not found

Today you will become a time traveller, as Scenic Eclipse II crosses the International Date Line, an imaginary line of demarcation that runs from the North to the South Pole, located roughly along the 180th meridian in the Pacific Ocean.

Join the Captain and crew for a celebratory crossing ceremony, honouring ancient maritime traditions with a light-hearted appreciation of the marvels of time and travel.

Arrives On: 21 Apr 28

Day 10: Neiafu (Tonga)

Tonga’s Vava’u archipelago, a cluster of around 40 coral islands, enchants with lush landscapes, sandy beaches, and vibrant marine life. Towering Mount Talau offers sweeping views, while local traditions—from pandanus weaving to vanilla extraction—bring the island’s rich culture to life. Scenic Discovery:
Today, subject to weather and local authorities’ approval, you may have the opportunity to join your Discovery Team to snorkel, kayak or stand-up paddleboard in the calm lagoon.

Arrives On: 22 Apr 28

Somosomo, the largest village on Fiji’s Taveuni Island, offers a gateway to some of the region’s most spectacular marine environments. On land, lush landscapes invite discovery, from cascading waterfalls to serene lakes, providing an idyllic balance of adventure and relaxation.
